

Apprentice joiner / Apprentice machinist

An opportunity has arisen for an apprentice joiner and apprentice machinist to join our expanding team at our new workshop based in Basildon.

At Falkus Joinery we provide a wide range of high-quality bespoke joinery products for both commercial and residential clients. We are skilled in producing a variety of custom and standard joinery items such as reception desks, wall panelling, wardrobes, kitchens, media units, and solid surface items. This is a fantastic opportunity to learn true craftsmanship and modern joinery techniques.

The successful applicant would be required to grow and learn the basic joinery skills within the workshop and complete an offsite qualification (fully funded by Falkus Joinery). It is a varied role working across the workshop, the ideal candidate will be a team player but also be able to work autonomously. This is a great role for someone who wants to learn a fantastic skill and become part of a well-established company.
